

Date: October 21, 2013

Unique Visitors Per Month:

<http://www.thedailymeal.com/where-eat-thanksgiving-dinner-if-youre-not-home/102113>

Where to Eat Thanksgiving Dinner If You're Not at Home

Thanksgiving is a holiday best spent with friends and family, enjoying food around a festive table. Whether that table is inside a house or inside a restaurant? That's up to you. If you're inside a restaurant, you don't have to worry about doing dishes, serving food, or even standing up until it's time to leave, so that's one advantage right there. And while it might sound sad to think about Thanksgiving at a restaurant — a few slices of dry turkey, lumpy gravy, boxed mashed potatoes and canned cranberry sauce might come to mind — there are actually a lot of restaurants that go above and beyond the call of duty to put together a world-class Thanksgiving experience for their customers.

We've scoured the country and assembled a list of restaurants, both chains and non-chains, that are serving Thanksgiving dinner this year. Check back often, as we'll be updating it as more menus roll in.

New York City

The Stanton Social: Thanksgiving specials include a traditional oven roasted organic turkey with honey and cider butter; butternut squash and sweet potato ravioli; spiced pecan and sage cornbread stuffing; pumpkin soup dumplings; skillet roasted brussel sprouts with pancetta, chestnuts and mustard.