22 Must-Try Barbecue Dishes

by Keith Wagstaff

Who's down for some barbecue?! We scoped out some of New York's top restaurants (including a few of the best barbecue eateries) to find new offerings that are drool-worthy, and then narrowed it down to 22 must-try options around town. It was very, very hard. From traditional Texas 'cue to more unique grilled Portuguese and Mexican options - if you try everything on this list it should leave you full until, oh, about the end of the year. Dig in.

Beauty & Essex's Baby Back Ribs

Beauty & Essex's Baby Back Ribs

Forget chowing down in a greasy BBQ shack; it's about time you ate your ribs the way rock stars do, surrounded by models and bottles of Cristal at this LES restaurant. Even the ribs are fancy, made with heritage pork that's been covered in a tangerine glaze and served with tempura onion rings ($19).
