

May 21, 2013

Unique Visitors Per Month: 57,971

<http://www.newyork.com/articles/travel/the-east-premiere-draws-a-crowd-jason-collins-honored-more-celebs-72433/>

'The East' Premiere Draws a Crowd, Jason Collins Honored, More Celebs

The East, the upcoming thriller starring Alexander Skarsgard, Patricia Clarkson and Ellen Page had its New York premiere Monday night at the Sunshine Landmark Cinema on the Lower East Side. Attendees included its stars as well as David Chase, MTV's Lenay Dunn and Zachary Levi. Afterward, the cast headed to the nearby Stanton Social restaurant for a post-wrap dinner. The party of 15 ordered many dishes, among them red snapper tacos, potato and goat cheese pierogies, smoked duck and baby kale salad and vegan spaghetti squash. "While most of the party was eating the gluten-free and vegan dishes, Skarsgard was all about the meat and beer," says a source. "He always had a beer in his hand." The group, including Skarsgard, also got up and danced to the tunes of Stanton Social's resident deejay, DJ Omari Toomer. And according to the source, Skarsgard even "flirted with a waitress."