The Stanton Social has a finely tailored décor that pays homage to the haberdashers and seamstress shops that once dotted this trendy neighborhood. Vintage hand mirrors, woven leather straps, and wine shelves laid out in a herringbone pattern outfit the low-lit, dark-wood furnished space. Choosing from the generous list of ambitious multicultural small plates executed by Chef/owner Chris Santos is difficult—bring friends to ensure a wholehearted run of the menu. The signature sliders and French onion soup dumplings certainly deserve consideration. This entertaining fare is a perfect pairing with one (or two) of the bar’s finely crafted cocktails or a selection from the well-chosen wine list. The second floor lounge offers the same menu.
