The 10 Spot: Midnight Sliders at The Stanton Social

The Stanton Social's New Late Night Menu

Friday, June 15, 2007

Late-night dining is another reason why you love Manhattan. Enter The 10 Spot, our monthly look at the best late night dining options.

Summer means longer days and longer nights.

Which is great when you find yourself hungry on the Lower East Side. Just be sure you're dining at The Stanton Social.

Sure, you know about the gorgeous interiors of the duplex designed by the award-winning design firm AvroKO (Quality Meats, Public). You may have even heard about their Kobe Beef Sliders or the Spicy Lobster Pasta (yes, they both rock).

But, did you know that you could order any item from Stanton Social's full menu until 2 a.m. on weeknights and 3 a.m. on weekends? That means more time to ponder: will it be the Duck Confit Empanadas with blood orange dipping sauce or the Lobster, Chorizo & Artichoke Paella Cakes.

While those choices begin to marinate, consider chef Chris Santos's new Summer dishes, such as BBQ Pork Sliders, Caramelized Peach & Brie Quesadilla with chile honey, or Herb Crusted Hanger Steak with 'blackened' potato salad & crispy buttermilk Vidalia onions.

And because the menu is of the share-friendly variety, everyone gets a fill and a thrill.
